NOTICES REGARDING MEAT INSPECTION.*MOLD IN OLEOSTEARINE.

The examinations of large numbers of samples of oleostearine within the last few months have revealed the presence of mold. A large proportion of these samples were so badly infested with mold as to be unfit for food. It is well known that the growth of this mold is dependent upon the presence of water and probably also extractive matter derived from animal tissues. Recent examinations have confirmed the results of previous investigation, all samples showing infestation with mold being also found to contain moisture and bits of animal tissue. The development of mold is, therefore, regarded as evidence of carelessness or improper methods of preparation resulting in the presence of moisture and bits of tissue in the finished stearine.

Remedies suggested are more careful preparation, particularly more careful settling of the oleo stock on the part of the establishments; more careful attention to the preparation and more frequent sampling of oleostearine for laboratory examination on the part of the inspectors, and the determination of moisture as a matter of routine on samples of oleostearine by the meat-inspection laboratories.

PATÉS DE FOIE GRAS.

Hereafter samples of imported patés de foie gras and similar products need not be collected for laboratory examination unless the shipment is entered as a meat food product and accompanied by proper meat-inspection certificate, or unless there is reason to believe that the material consists in fact of meat food product. It will not be necessary to take samples of all shipments of well-known or familiar brands of such products which are entered as meat food products provided previous samples of the same brand have shown it to be uniformly in compliance with the regulations.

CERTIFICATES TO ACCOMPANY SHEEP AND GOATS TO CANADA.

Under a ruling of the Canadian Department of Agriculture, goats intended for shipment to Canada will be subject to the same dipping requirements as sheep. On page 21 of Service and Regulatory Announcements for March, 1919, and on page 123 of the November, 1919, issue of the same publication, explicit instructions were given concerning the certification of sheep in these cases.

The Canadian authorities have recently brought to the attention of the bureau instances in which sheep and goats have been presented at border ports of entry accompanied by bureau certificates which were not in accordance with the requirements. Bureau inspectors who may be called upon to issue certificates for sheep or goats destined to Canada should exercise care to issue the certificates specified in the aforementioned instructions, these being the forms which will be recognized by Canadian inspectors.

9.—Indorsement of and payment for telegrams; identification cards.—All official telegrams should be sent either "Paid" or "Collect," and be indorsed, "U. S. Official Business, Government Rate."

Telegrams from an employee in travel status to any point other than Washington, D. C., or his field headquarters, if a charge account is maintained at such field headquarters, and all telegrams reserving hotel accommodations must be sent "Paid" at Government rate and the cost thereof claimed by the employee in his personal reimbursement account, supported by a copy of the message.

Telegrams from field headquarters where charge accounts are maintained to any point other than Washington, D. C., should be indorsed "Paid, Government rate. Charge local office, Bureau of —, Department of Agriculture."

Telegrams from or to field headquarters where charge accounts are not maintained (except telegrams to Washington, D. C.) should be sent "Paid" at Government rate and the cost thereof claimed by the employee in his personal reimbursement account.

Telegrams from an employee in travel status to Washington, D. C., or to his field headquarters if a charge account is maintained at such field headquarters, should be sent "Collect" at Government rate.

Unofficial telegrams from bureau officials to employees or other persons should be sent "Collect" at commercial rates, due consideration being given to the importance of the message so that addressee may secure the advantage of deferred service rates.

Identification cards for official use may be obtained upon application, through the chief of bureau, to the chief clerk of the department.

AMENDMENTS TO ADMINISTRATIVE REGULATIONS.

REINSTATEMENT OF FORMER EMPLOYEES.

In accordance with Executive order dated June 25, 1921, amending Rule IX of the Civil Service Rules, paragraphs 20 and 138 of the Administrative Regulations of the department are amended by Memorandum 344 of the office of the Secretary of Agriculture, dated August 22, 1921, to read as follows:

20.—Reinstatement.—A person separated without delinquency or misconduct from a competitive position, or from a position which he entered by transfer or promotion from a competitive position, may be reinstated in the department or office in which he served at the time of his separation, upon certificate of the Civil Service Commission, subject to the following limitations: Unless otherwise provided hereinafter, a person may be reinstated only to the department or independent Government establishment from which separated and upon requisition made within one year from the date of his separation. When the commission and the appointing officer are in agreement that the public interest requires such unusual action, the commission may authorize waiver of the one-year limit herein prescribed under the following time limitations: Two years where service has been two years but less than three years; three years where service has been three years but less than four years; four years where service has been four years but less than five years; and five years where service has been five years or more. This limitation shall not apply to a person who served in the Civil War or the war with Spain and was honorably discharged, or his widow, or an Army nurse of either war, separated from the competitive classified service before July 18, 1918, who may be reinstated in the department from which separated without time limit. If separated after July 18, 1918, reinstatement may be made within five years from the date of separation. A soldier, sailor, marine, or Army nurse of the war with Germany formerly in the competitive classified service may be reinstated in any part of the competitive classified service within five years from the date of honorable cessation of active military service if he has the required fitness to perform the duties of the position to which his reinstatement is sought. The widow of a veteran of the war with Germany formerly in the competitive classified service who was the wife of such veteran while he was in the military service may be reinstated in any part of the competitive classified service within five years from the date of cessation of her husband's military service by death or otherwise without discredit. No person may be reinstated to a position requiring an examination different from that required for the position from which he was separated without passing an appropriate examination.

It is required by law that former Government employees who left the service of the department to enter the military service of the United States in the war with Germany shall be reinstated, on application, to their former positions if they have received an honorable discharge and are qualified to perform the duties of the position. Except in the cases of the employees referred to above, reinstatement is not a right given to a former employee, but is merely one of the ways by which an appointing officer may fill a vacancy.

Recommendations for reinstatement must give the last date of actual service rendered by the applicant, salary received by him at the time of separation, also the number, relationship, etc., of other members of his family (if any) who are employed in the Government service.

138.—Appointment terminated without prejudice.—Reinstatement.—When an employee has been absent for more than 60 days and has not been granted leave for the period in excess of 60 days, he will, without a showing from him, be considered to have abandoned his position and his appointment may be forthwith terminated without prejudice. Such employee, however, will be eligible for reinstatement as set forth in paragraph 20.

PERSONNEL INFORMATION REQUIRED.

Inspectors and others in charge should promptly notify the Washington office of any change in the marital relations of the employees at their stations, as such information is of great value when questions regarding the transfer of employees to other stations are under consideration.

Many bureau employees seem to have forgotten the information previously given in Service and Regulatory Announcements that applications for transfer must be renewed each year. If such renewal of request is not received before the expiration of a year, the bureau assumes that the employee no longer desires the transfer, and his name is removed from the list of applicants. It should be remembered further that all applications must state whether the applicant desires the transfer at his own or bureau's expense.

Inspectors in charge are again reminded that the bureau should be notified immediately by letter of the date of reporting for duty of a new appointee, an employee reporting by reinstatement, or by transfer from another force, and also the same information regarding an employee returning to duty after a period of leave without pay. This information is absolutely necessary in the first two cases, as under the recently enacted retirement law the effective date of appointment or reinstatement must be the actual date the employee reports for duty.

STREET-CAR FARES.

The attention of officers and employees of the bureau is invited to the following:

Street-car fare, when an expense incident to subsistence as distinguished from transportation, shall be charged against the maximum subsistence allowance of officers or employees traveling on an actual-expense basis.

Decision by Comptroller General McCarl, August 2, 1921:

The Secretary of the Treasury applied to the Comptroller of the Treasury on June 30, 1921, for revision of the action of the Auditor for the Treasury Department in disallowing, by settlement No. 12179, dated June 30, 1921, certain items in an account of J. L. Summers, disbursing clerk of the Treasury Department, amounting to $8.25. These items represent payments made by the disbursing clerk to Treasury Department employees, who were in a travel status and entitled to reimbursement of their actual traveling expenses, including actual expense of subsistence, in reimbursement of expense of car fare incurred by them in going daily from their hotel in New York to the subtreasury in that city, where they were temporarily employed, and in returning to the hotel after the day's work was done. It is well settled that all necessary car fare of official travelers who are on an allowance of actual expense of subsistence from and to a hotel or boarding house is a proper charge against the United States, although travelers on a per diem allowance in lieu of subsistence are not entitled to reimbursement of such car fare. (23 Comp. Dec., 440; 24 id., 87; 25 id., 703; 26 id., 341.) The disallowance in this case raises the question whether such car fare shall be included in and charged against the maximum limit of $5 per day for actual expense of subsistence which has been fixed by statute.

Such car fare is not in itself an item of subsistence but it is an expense incident to subsistence. It stands upon the same footing in this respect as tips to waiters, etc., which have heretofore been treated as items chargeable to the maximum subsistence allowance. The maximum should be applied to, and made to cover all expenses of the traveler which are incidental to subsistence as distinguished from transportation, which is the other main division of traveling expenses. Car fare of this character being an incident to subsistence, and not to transportation, should be charged against the maximum subsistence allowance.

In each of the cases covered by this appeal the traveler had been reimbursed actual expense of subsistence each day to the full daily maximum of $5, exclusive of this car fare, and therefore was not entitled to any further reimbursement on account of subsistence. Payment to them of the car fare was erroneous and the auditor's disallowance of such payments must be affirmed.

The bureau has been informed by competent authority that the decision quoted applies also to fares for other local means of transportation. In view of the decision it will be necessary for employees of the bureau, when submitting reimbursement accounts in which subsistence expense plus expense of street car or other fares on any one day exceeds the regulation allowance of $5, or any other maximum daily allowance fixed in their authorization for subsistence, to indicate, if practicable, in their accounts in connection with each day's charges for street car or other fares, the points between which the cars were used, or, that they do not include transportation from or to the place where meals or lodgings were obtained. If charges for street-car or other fares are frequent, and it is hardly practicable to characterize them thus in accounts, it is suggested that a general certificate may be made and signed by the employee immediately following the last item in his reimbursement account, as follows: "I hereby certify that none of the charges for street-car or other fares claimed in this account include fares from or to the place where I obtained meals or lodgings."

It should be understood that characterization of or certificate covering charges for street-car or other fares need not be indicated in reimbursement accounts when subsistence expense plus such fares on any one day does not exceed the employee's daily allowance for subsistence. It should also be understood that street-car or other fares covering transportation between home or hotel and depot, going on or returning from trips, do not come within the purview of the above decision. It is suggested, however, that all charges for such fares be indicated in accounts as follows: "Street-car fare, depot to hotel," "Street-car fare, residence to depot," "Street-car fare, hotel to depot," etc., as the case may be.
